

Title	'Anti-racist practice: challenges and change'
Overview	This event is intended to bring together the two strands of the CMSWTP research funded project entitled "From student to Practitioner: 'Race' racism and social work.' It is aimed at practitioners, Practice Educators and newly qualified Social Workers. The purpose of the event will provide those in attendance with a way forward which encompasses the principles of Anti-racist practice. They will be informed about the themes emerging from the research and can listen to and engage with the speaker who has considerable experience in working with BAME and Global Majority students, Practice Educators and practitioners around matters related to Anti-racist practice. Attendees at the event will have traversed or supported those negotiating the landscape of Social Work education, as students and then as practitioners. The event will offer participants concrete ways to work in an Anti-racist way and challenge endemic racism in teaching and learning and professional practice.
Attendees	Practitioners, Practice Educators and NQSW's
Facilitated by	Andrea Newman, Beverley Burke and Philomena Harrison
Date and time	27 th January, 2023, 10 .00am – 1.30pm
Capacity	Up to 40
Cost	Free to Primary and Secondary members of the CMSWTP.
Delivered	Liverpool Hope University, Hope Park, Liverpool L16 9JD
Registration	Please email Philomena Harrison at harrisp1@hope.ac.uk to reserve a place on this event
Further info	Parking is available at a small cost. Lunch and refreshments will be provided on the day